

OVER THE TEACUPS

Raspberry Tartlets.
Line some patty pans with good pasting, then spread a layer of raspberry jam. Make a cake mixture with two eggs and their weight in sugar, butter and flour. Beat the mixture thoroughly and put a good heaped teaspoonful into each patty pan. Bake in a quick oven, and directly they are cooked, put on the top a teaspoonful of raspberry icing.

Gown for Early Fall.
The skirt is blue satin-finished vicuna. The skirt is plaited over the hips, and has a little plain yoke bordered with a band of the material. It is trimmed at the bottom with a wide band of lace, forming scallops at the top, and bordered and trimmed with bands of the plain cloth.

The blouse has a little corselet corresponding with the hip-yoke, the two separated by a girde of dark blue liberty. The large cape collar is trimmed with the lace and cloth bands like the skirt, and is fastened a little on one side with a motif of taffeta. The plastron and the full sleeves are of lace, the latter finished with deep cuffs of the same encircled with bands of the cloth.—Le Guide des Couturieres.

Pink Voile and Lace.

Costume of pink voile trimmed with bands of lace insertions and tucks. Cravat of pink and blue crepe de chine, with silk fringe. Hat of pink tulle.

Elaborate Imported Gown.
An imported gown of reseda velvet has the skirt trimmed with bands of broadcloth in the same shade. The blouse bodice has a trimming of Persian embroidery, and it is made to close on the left side. It is shirred over the shoulders, the shirring extending to the sleeves, which are very full. The yoke and the under-sleeves are of white lace over pale green silk, and the top of the collar is of the same.

For a Knockabout Suit.
A coarse scouring serge, in ivory white or navy blue, is the leading fabric for the useful knockabout suit. The skirt is invariably fashioned of serviceable walking length, while the corsage takes, as a general rule, a bolero movement, though many most successful costumes are completed by blouses Russian or sailor bodices.

Informal Talks

Pretty figured silks may be picked up at bargains now for house gowns later on.

Kerosene will last longer and produce a better light if a lump of salt about the size of a walnut be placed in the reservoir of the lamp in which it is used.

Chairs should be chosen for comfort as well as for appearance. The fragile ones that look as though they would collapse if a substantial person sat on them should be abolished from the modern home.

When making cakes, try greasing the pans with olive oil instead of butter. You will find that the cakes turn out better.

Stains on knives, however obstinate, will disappear if rubbed with a piece of raw potato dipped in brick dust.

CLEAN LINGS.

White promises to continue a winter fad.

A wreath of green is worn on elaborate collures.

Sleeves grow more voluminous from elbow to wrist.

Potunia is to share the fuchsia rage in autumn colors.

Bunches of red and white currants are a feature of the new millinery.

In evening and tea gowns the fashions of the first empire are followed.

A trimming of black velvet bows is one of the prettiest of quaint revivals.

A jeweled band of lace, fitting snugly like a dog collar, is worn with evening dress.

Accordion plaited skirts and waists are one of the loveliest fashions of the hour.

Jeweled reticules of golden links are carried at garden parties, theaters and all fashionable gatherings.

The newest touch is to turn the deep shoulder collar up on each side upon the shoulder as though to leave the arms free.

Peach Pudding.

Pare and slice six ripe peaches; add to them one pint of sweet milk, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, two-thirds cupful of sugar, three eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately, a pinch of salt, and one-half teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir all together, then turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake till set. Serve hot with hard sauce or cold with sweetened cream.

To remove mud stains from dark dresses dissolve a little carbonate of soda in water and wash the stains with it. Spots may also be removed from black dresses by washing with a very weak solution of ammonia.

Irons should always be kept in a dry place. A convenient thing to keep under the set tubs or in some other out-of-the-way corner is a soap box, into which may be placed the flat irons, holders, stand and wax cloth when not in use, says the Chicago News.

Owen Daw Corn Bread.

Take two teacups of boiled hominy and while hot mix with it a very large spoonful of butter; beat four eggs very light and stir them into the hominy; add a pint of milk, gradually stirred in, and a half pint of white corn meal; salt. The batter should be of the consistency of boiled custard. Bake with a good deal of heat at the bottom of the oven and not to much at the top. The pan should be deep. This bread is often baked in a milk pan.

For the Hat Season.

When one's millinery shows the exercise of taste and thought it does a great deal toward beautifying a woman's face, and when it becomes merely a matter of display it loses its charm. The hat should be in harmony with the costume of the individual, or make artistic contrasts. The colors should also suit the complexion, and its shape be appropriate to the face. There are very few women who look well in every style and color. A becoming hat is the most beautiful ornament a woman wears.

White Cloth Mantle.

Mantle of white cloth incrustured with heavy gurgule of yellowish shade, fastened by a button covered with gurgule.

Pretty Petticoats.

As to the shape of the popular petticoat, it is little changed, though the widening of the outside skirt must naturally soon effect an increase in the under one. The best gown skirts in the market are already very full in the back, and it is predicted that petticoats will soon be as wide as they have lately been narrow.

Meanwhile, as everything is done to preserve the umbrella look of the get-up, some of the tricks employed to achieve slinness are worthy of study.

Where the thickness of the outside skirt admits of it many stoutly built figures go entirely without petticoats.

Cloth and Chiffon.

Cloth and chiffon seem an incongruous combination, yet they are occasionally made to harmonize perfectly. A plum-colored cloth gown is described with bodice and voluminous sleeves of chiffon of the same shade, both being trimmed with applications of leaves formed of the cloth. Plum color, by the way, is to be much seen in the autumn. It is one of the colors peculiarly suited to be worn with rich-hued autumn. Like brown and crimson, it tones in with the season.

Athletic and Aesthetic.

The athletic girl's corset is a comfortable girde made of broad linen tape, stitched stoutly at every seam. This allows freedom of movement and improves one's carriage considerably.

FALL GOWNS FROM PARIS.

The gown at the left is of blue serge or cloth. The bolero is composed of many bands of the cloth, some finished at the ends with buttons, and is trimmed with colored galloon, of a sort of basket, or matting, weave. The collar and cuffs are of ermine, the cravat of black satin, and the draped girde of blue velvet. The skirt, of walking length, is plaited all round to a plain hip yoke. The right-hand gown is of gray cloth. The bolero and odd sleeves, loose on the outside, are trimmed with embroidery and passementerie buttons and bordered with a band of cloth in another shade. The waistcoat is of white cloth, embroidered in colors. The blouse front is of white silk, and the collar and girde are of black satin. The plaited skirt has a hip yoke which extends to the hem in front, forming a tablier. The rest of the skirt is encircled near the bottom with stitched bands of the cloth. The little sleeve caps are also stitched.—Chic Parisien.

med with embroidery and passementerie buttons and bordered with a band of cloth in another shade. The waistcoat is of white cloth, embroidered in colors. The blouse front is of white silk, and the collar and girde are of black satin. The plaited skirt has a hip yoke which extends to the hem in front, forming a tablier. The rest of the skirt is encircled near the bottom with stitched bands of the cloth. The little sleeve caps are also stitched.—Chic Parisien.

MRS. LILLIAN T. JANEWAY, BRIDE OF SENATOR THOMAS C. PLATT OF NEW YORK

MRS. LILLIAN T. JANEWAY

Among the many messages received by Senator Platt containing expressions of congratulation upon his approaching marriage to Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway is one written by Senator Depew, with which the prospective bridegroom is greatly pleased. The letter reads:

"New York, Oct. 7, 1902.—My Dear Platt: You have done the right thing. I speak from knowledge. It is a prevalent idea that in the evening of life when his friends are dropping away and his interests narrowing, a man should flock by himself. These croak-ers practically preach that youth is the period for companionship, age for solitude.

"There is no period when the home and domestic bliss is so necessary to preserve youth, its realities and illusions, as when one has passed 60. Cheerfulness not cheerlessness, is the secret of happy longevity. Susceptibility to surroundings increase with years.

"Cordial congratulations and long, healthy, joyous lives to you both in the hearty wish of Mrs. Depew and myself. Faithfully yours, "CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW."

PLATT EVADED EVIL OMEN.

New York Senator Changed Date of Wedding to Oct. 15.

Senator Platt made a change in the date of his wedding, which had been set for Oct. 16. The veteran statesman discovered that this date was a Friday and he declined to risk placing himself under the power of the evil spirits who are said to have authority over that day. In this his bride, Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway of Washington, agreed with him. The wedding was set one day earlier.

Mrs. Janeway is twice a widow. Her first husband was a Mr. Snow of whom nothing is known in Washington. Her second husband was Dr. Janeway of New York. After the death of Dr. Janeway the widow sought employment for herself and daughter, now 20 years of age, and through the influence of Senator Platt was given a place in the congressional library in 1897.

Mrs. Janeway is considered one of the handsomest women in Washington. She is noted for her superb gowns and jewels. The senator and his wife will live at the Arlington hotel in Washington during the sessions of congress.

A Thoughtful Lieutenant.

Lieut. Rudolph Smyser, the youngest commissioned officer in any branch of the United States service, will shortly leave for the Philippines to join his regiment, the Fourth cavalry.

Lieut. Smyser is not yet quite 21 years of age having been born in York, Pa., Dec. 5, 1882. At 16, being unusually well grown for his years, he entered the Pennsylvania volunteers, serving three years. Rejoining, he went to the Philippines, where he distinguished himself. Later he became second lieutenant in a regiment of regular cavalry and last year was promoted to first lieutenant and assigned to the Fourth.

Wants to Be Buried at Sea.

Surgeon Brice, who sails on a trans-Atlantic liner plying to New York, has crossed the ocean as ship's surgeon 804 times traveling 2,500,000 miles by sea, and hopes to make 900 trips before he retires. Dr. Brice is 75 years old but stout and hearty. "I can't understand the feeling people have against burial at sea," said the old surgeon. "For me that is the only burial I desire. A weight at my feet, then overboard into the sea, down among the fishes—that is good enough for me. May my last voyage be the one on which I die. I don't want my old body to rest on shore."

Oppose Capital Punishment.

Chief Justice Lore of Delaware, who has taken such a decided stand against lynching, is opposed to capital punishment. "I would not take life for the commission of crime," he says, "but would put the criminal under such restraint as would protect the people and give him the full measure of his day to work out such penitence and reformation as all good influences might produce. Life is too sacred and too holy a thing to be taken. I would grant life so long as God spared each one of his creatures."

"BEATS" IN HIGH SOCIETY.

Fashionable English People Do Not Pay their Bills.

English society is facing the prospect of some of its leading members being placed on a court "blacklist" for neglecting to pay their tailor, dressmakers', grocers' and doctors' bills. A London firm of solicitors of excellent professional standing has taken up cases for several clients, with the view to placing them before the lord chamberlain, so that the defaulters no longer may enjoy the hospitality of the English court. A member of this firm says that a certain marchioness occupying a high position at court and who took a leading part in the ceremonies incidental to King Edward's coronation owes her dressmaker $25,000. The fashionable wife of a member of parliament is among the worst delinquents, having made away with or concealed costumes that are veritable works of art.

MORGAN LOST HIS COAT.

Wall Street King Got the Worst of Exchange.

J. Pierpont Morgan was an active figure at the annual convention of the New York Protestant Episcopal diocese. The day was a trifle cool and Mr. Morgan wore an overcoat worth $100. At any rate, that was what his tailor had charged him for the garment. When the session came to an end Mr. Morgan left in a hurry and did not discover until an hour or so later that he had carried off some other man's coat—a rather shabby looking affair it was too. The only thing he could find in the pockets was a well-chewed toothpick. The owner has not yet claimed the property, perhaps because he is well satisfied with the trade.

Had a Narrow Escape.

Herman Wouters, a citizen of Jersey City, has just returned home from a visit to Germany, his native country. He had gone to see his parents at Kempen, and hearing that he was to be arrested on the charge of shirking military duty he hurriedly said good-by, mounted his motor cycle and started for the Holland boundary line. And not a minute too soon, for a mounted German policeman was in chase of him. Wouters' gasoline began to give out, but he just managed to cross the line where the German officer was halted. The fugitive lost no time in reaching Antwerp where he took the first steamer for New York.

Man Was Strangely Formed.

Joseph Meyer, a Milwaukee harness-maker, who attracted a great deal of attention from physicians some years ago because of the unusual location of his heart, is dead. The heart failed to do its work at last, although until a few hours before his death he appeared to be as well as ever. Not only was his heart on the right side in the exact location where it should have been on the left, but the positions of all of his internal organs were in just the opposite positions to which they are found in the average man.

ALL TIRED OUT.

The weary, worn out, all-tired feelings come to everybody who taxes the kidneys. When the kidneys are over-worked they fail to perform the duties nature has provided for them to do. When the kidneys fail dangerous diseases quickly follow, urinary disorders, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:

Veteran Joshua Heller, of 706 South Walnut street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cunningham Bros.' drug store in Champaign and taking a course of treatment I told the readers of the paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which had elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically endorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Heller will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Medical advice free; strictly confidential. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 60 cents per box.

It takes a maid to make a widower think of his loss and a widow to make him forget it.

If you don't get the biggest and best it's your own fault. Deduce Search is for sale everywhere and there is positively nothing to equal it in quality or quantity.

Pride often lifts a man up by the handle attached to his name.

ARE YOUR CLOTHES FADED?
Use Red Cross Ball Blue and make them white again. Large 2 oz. package, 5 cents.

Reasonable Excuse.

The Chicago woman who had to go to the undertaker two years after the death of her husband in order to learn what the dead man's name was, did not wholly forget him. She remembered that she had been married to somebody. Besides, Chicago is a noisy, distracting city, where even married people both alive have forgotten that they were married.

Oldest Ferry.

Perhaps the oldest ferry in the world is the cross-channel service from Calais to Dover. It has been in existence for more than twenty centuries and the vessels which have been engaged in it include every variety of shipping, from Caesar's high-peaked galleys, propelled by banks of oars, to the new turbine steamer.

Imports from America.

American imports from Sheffield, England, last year, were worth $2,242,000, an increase of $415,000 over the year previous, but only $811,000 of this was for manufactured goods, the bulk being steel sheets, bars and plates.

Farming in Alaska.

Large sections of Alaska are suited for farming and gardening. Such crops as oats, wheat, rye, barley and flax have been raised and vegetables—potatoes, turnips, beets, peas, celery, etc., grow in abundance.

ORIGIN.

Of a Famous Human Food.

The story of great discoveries or inventions is always of interest.

An active brain worker who found himself hampered by lack of bodily strength and vigor and could not carry out the plans and enterprises he knew how to conduct was led to study various foods and their effects upon the human system. In other words before he could carry out his plans he had to find a food that would carry him along and renew his physical and mental strength.

He knew that a food that was a brain and nerve builder, rather than a mere fat maker, was universally needed. He knew that meat with the average man does not accomplish the desired results. He knew that the soft gray substance in brain and nerve centers is made from Albumen and Phosphate of Potash obtained from food. Then he started to solve the problem.

Careful and extensive experiments evolved Grape-Nuts, the now famous food. Grape-Nuts contain the brain and nerve building food elements in condition for easy digestion. The result of eating Grape-Nuts daily is easily seen in a marked sturdiness and activity of the brain and nervous system, making it a pleasure for one to carry on the daily duties without fatigue or exhaustion. The food is in no sense a stimulant but is simply food which renews and replaces the daily waste of brain and nerves.

Its flavor is charming and it is fully and thoroughly cooked at the factory it is served instantly with cream.

The signature of the brain worker spoken of, C. W. Post, is to be seen on each genuine package of Grape-Nuts.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."